

~PRONOUNCED (44)

[English, marked, distinct, definite, obvious, prominent, evident, manifest, well-defined, explicit]

- Joshua pronounced a curse at that time against any man who would try to rebuild Jericho.
- Then Joshua had an oath pronounced at that particular time, saying; Cursed may the man be before Yehowah who gets up and does build this city, even Jericho. At the forfeit of his firstborn let him lay the foundation of it, and at the forfeit of his youngest let him put up its doors. (Joshua 6:26)
- Her son showed that he was the cursed one she pronounced a curse over, for her own son had taken the silver.
- In time he said to his mother; The thousand one hundred silver pieces that were taken from you and over which you pronounced a curse and also said it in my hearing, look! The silver is with me. It was I who took it. At that his mother said; Blessed may my son be of Yehowah. (Judges 17:2)
- Anyone acting with consideration toward a lowly one will be pronounced happy in the earth by Yehowah God himself, and you cannot possibly give him over to the soul of his enemies.
- Yehowah himself will guard him and preserve him alive. He will be pronounced happy in the earth, and you cannot possibly give him over to the soul of his enemies. (Psalms 41:2)
- There is nothing new upon the earth, for whatever has come to be, its name has already been pronounced.
- Whatever has come to be, its name has already been pronounced, and it has become known what man is, and he is not able to plead his cause with one that is more powerful than he is. (Ecclesiastes 6:10)